Storage yard planning row

TEST Valley's borough secretary and solicitor has stepped in to help solve a planning disagreement over a builders storage yard at Blakes Yard, in Chapel Lane, Broughton.

Mr G Dance wants 'established use' from TVBC planning officers for the land which is about 0.1 acres set behind houses in Chapel Lane and High Street.

Some witnesses say that while the land was once garden, sometime during the war it began to be used for storing scaffolding and builders materials. But another says the land was garden at all material times and has been used for storage only recently — a view supported by another party, according to a report from borough planning chiefs.

The application has been deferred for completion of consultations.
